

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary is an outrageous abuse of the public airwaves. Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. That this large company can control the airwaves and present biased political propaganda as real news is unconscionable. Sinclair's actions show clear political intent and their license renewal requests need to be carefully examined with regard to this company's ability to serve the public interest.
